

Contents

Section I

Mind Over Mood Unpacked

1	How to Use This Clinician’s Guide	3
	Structure of This Clinician’s Guide, 3
	Applications of This Clinician’s Guide, 4
	How This Guide Helps Experienced Therapists, 4; How to Use This Guide in Training and Supervision, 5; Practitioners Working in Isolation, 7; Personal Use of MOM2 to Facilitate Learning, 7; Use of MOM2 by Therapists Who Do Not Practice CBT, 8
	When to Use MOM2 : A Decision Tree, 8
	Two Ways to Use MOM2 and This Clinician’s Guide, 9
	Fully Integrating MOM2 into Therapy, 10; Using MOM2 as an Adjunct to Therapy, 14
	How MOM2 Supports Clients’ Progress, 17
	Clients’ Skill Acquisition and Enduring Change, 18
2	Fundamental Skills (MOM2 Chapters 1–4)	20
	Introducing MOM2 , 20
	Caution: Read Before Use!, 23
	MOM2 Chapter 1: How Mind Over Mood Can Help You, 23
	MOM2 Chapter 2: Understanding My Problems, 25
	Four Primary Characters, 25; The Five-Part Model, 25
	MOM2 Chapter 3: It’s the Thought That Counts, 28
	The Thought Connections, 29; What Else Therapists Need to Know about Thought Connections, 30
	MOM2 Chapter 4: Identifying and Rating Moods, 34
	Identifying Moods, 34; Rating Moods, 35
	Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapters 1–4, 35

When Clients Have More Than One Primary Mood, 36; When Clients Have Limited Reading Ability, 37; When Clients Don't Do What They Agree to Do, 38

- 3 Goal Setting (MOM2 Chapter 5) 45
- Setting Goals, 45
  - Advantages and Disadvantages of Reaching Goals, 48
    - Important Caution!, 48
  - What Will Help Someone Reach Goals?, 48
  - Signs of Improvement, 51
  - Setting Goals for Emotional Change, 51
  - Prioritizing Goals and Tracking Progress, 53
  - Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapter 5, 54
    - Vague Client Goals or Client Difficulty in Describing Goals, 54;
    - Constantly Changing Client Goals, 55; Maladaptive Client Goals, 57; Belief That Change Is Impossible, 61; Discouragement with Slow Change, 64
- 4 Thought Records, Part I: Situations, Moods, and Thoughts (Columns 1–3; MOM2 Chapters 6–7) 66
- Are Thought Records Important?, 67
  - The Flow of Using 7-Column Thought Records in Therapy, 68
  - MOM2 Chapter 6: Situations, Moods, and Thoughts, 69
    - Column 1: Situation, 70; Column 2: Moods, 71; Column 3: Automatic Thoughts (Images), 72
  - MOM2 Chapter 7: Automatic Thoughts, 72
    - Automatic Thoughts, 73; Moods, Automatic Thoughts, and Cognitive Specificity, 76; Identifying Hot Thoughts, 83; Mood Check-Ups, 89
  - Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapters 6–7, 90
    - If You Are More Familiar with a Different Thought Record Format, 90
- 5 Thought Records, Part II: Cognitive Restructuring 91 (Columns 4–7; MOM2 Chapters 8–9)
- MOM2 Chapter 8: Where's the Evidence?, 91
    - Facts versus Interpretations, 92; Column 4: Evidence That Supports the Hot Thought, 92; Column 5: Evidence That Does Not Support the Hot Thought, 98
  - MOM2 Chapter 9: Alternative or Balanced Thinking, 111
    - When Do Clients Write an Alternative Thought? When Do Clients Write a Balanced Thought?, 111; Is It Necessary to Rate the Belief in Alternative/Balanced Thoughts?, 115; What If the Evidence Supports the Hot Thought?, 116; How Much Mood Change Can Be Expected?, 117
  - Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapters 8–9, 118
    - If the Hot Thought Is a Core Belief, Treat It as an Automatic Thought, 118;
    - If There Is Little Engagement with or Impact of Thought Records: Use Imagery, 119; If All-or-Nothing Thinking Interferes: Use a Continuum, 120

6	New Thoughts, Action Plans, and Acceptance (MOM2 Chapter 10)	123
	Strengthening New Thoughts, 124 Action Plans to Solve Problems, 126 Acceptance, 130 Combining Action Plans and Acceptance, 133 Chronic Health Problems, 133; Discrimination and Social Injustice, 133 Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapter 10, 134 When People Misinterpret Acceptance as Giving Up, 134; When Therapists Are Not Trained in Mindfulness or Acceptance Therapies, 135
7	Underlying Assumptions and Behavioral Experiments (MOM2 Chapter 11)	136
	When to Work with Underlying Assumptions, 137 For Depression, 138; For Anxiety, 139; For Anger, Guilt, Shame, and Other Moods, 139; For Behavior Change and Interpersonal Relationships, 139 Identifying Underlying Assumptions, 140 Mood-Related Underlying Assumptions, 140; Behavior-Related Underlying Assumptions, 141 Behavioral Experiments, 142 Setting Up Effective Behavioral Experiments, 142; Behavioral Experiments, Socratic Dialogue, and Our “Two Minds”, 160 Developing and Strengthening New Underlying Assumptions, 161 Benefits of New Underlying Assumptions, 162; An Alternative Approach: Acting “As If” New Assumptions Are True, 162 Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapter 11, 163 Therapist Roadblocks: Underlying Assumptions and Behavioral Experiments, 163; Common Underlying Assumptions and Behavioral Experiments to Test Them, 166
8	New Core Beliefs, Gratitude, and Acts of Kindness (MOM2 Chapter 12)	172
	Why Doesn’t Everyone Need to Work with Core Beliefs?, 173 Who Is Likely to Benefit from Work on Core Beliefs?, 175 Chronic or Long-Standing Mood Issues, 175; Chronic or Long-Standing Behavioral Issues, 175; Concurrent Personality Disorder Diagnoses, 175; Primary Treatment of Personality Disorders, 176 Identifying Core Beliefs, 177 Core Beliefs about Self, Others, and the World, 178; Using Either the Simple or Downward Arrow Worksheets to Identify Core Beliefs, 180 Identifying New Core Beliefs, 180 Strengthening New Core Beliefs, 182 Completing Core Belief Records, 183; Rating Confidence in a New Core Belief on a Scale (Continuum), 185; Rating Behaviors on a Scale (Continuum) Instead of in All-or-Nothing Terms, 190; Conducting Behavioral Experiments to Strengthen New Core Beliefs, 192 Approaching Rather Than Avoiding Challenging Situations, 194

	What Happens after Core Belief Work?, 195
	Gratitude and Kindness, 196
	Gratitude, 196; Acts of Kindness, 200; Applications of Gratitude and Kindness for Clinical Issues, 201
	Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapter 12, 202
	Therapy When Concurrent Personality Disorders Are Present, 202
9	Depression and Behavioral Activation (MOM2 Chapter 13)	206
	Depression Guide for Clinicians: The Flow of Therapy, 208
	Measuring Depression and Tracking Improvement, 209
	Behavioral Activation, 211
	Thoughts and Depression, 214
	“I Can’t Do This” (Negative Thoughts about Oneself), 215; Pessimism (Negative Thoughts about Life Experiences), 216; Hopelessness (Negative Thoughts about the Future), 217
	The Evidence Base for MOM2’s Approach to Depression, 218
	Many Effective Therapies for Depression, 218; Choosing Treatments That Reduce Relapse, 219; The Influence of This Research on MOM2, 221
	Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapter 13, 221
	Reluctance to Do Activities, 221; Inability to Feel Pleasure, 223; Extremely Low Activity Levels, 225; Discriminating among Sadness, Grief, and Depression, 226
10	Understanding Anxiety and Treatment Principles (MOM2 Chapter 14)	227
	Anxiety Guide for Clinicians: The Flow of Therapy, 229
	Therapist Confidence in Anxiety Treatment, 231
	Anxiety Treatment: Guiding Principles, 232
	Welcome Anxiety: Evoke Curiosity Instead of Self-Criticism, 232;
	Measure Anxiety and Track Improvement, 233; Approach Anxiety Instead of Allowing Avoidance and Safety Behaviors, 235; Therapy Goal: Manage Anxiety, Don’t Eliminate It, 237; Identify and Test the Central Beliefs in Anxiety, 240
	Understanding Anxiety: MOM2 Chapter 14 Skills and Worksheets, 250
	Fear Ladder: Approaching or Avoiding?, 250; Increasing Anxiety Tolerance, 252; Changing Anxious Thoughts and Images, 261; Medication, 262
	Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapter 14, 264
	Therapist Fears, 264; Helping Clients Approach Their Fear of Death, 267; Avoidance of Therapy Procedures, 268
11	Adapting MOM2 to Common Anxiety and Related Disorders	271
	Common Elements in CBT Protocols for Anxiety Disorders, 273
	Using MOM2 in Treatment of GAD: The Worry Disorder, 273
	Demonstrate How Anxiety Operates and How Worries Are Fueled by Anxiety, 275; Identify the Underlying Assumptions That Lie beneath Worries, 278; Devise Behavioral Experiments to Test Underlying Assumptions, 279; Identify Alternative Assumptions That Promote Less

	Worry and Anxiety, 279; Devise Behavioral Experiments to Test the Utility of Alternative Assumptions, 281
	Using MOM2 in Treatment of Panic Disorder, 283
	Identify Catastrophic Misinterpretations, 285; Induce and Identify Noncatastrophic Explanations for Sensations, 287; Devise Behavioral Experiments to Decrease Avoidance and Safety Behaviors, 288; Devise Further Behavioral Experiments, 290
	Using MOM2 in the Treatment of Specific Phobia, 290
	Using MOM2 in the Treatment of Agoraphobia, 294
	Using MOM2 in the Treatment of Social Anxiety, 295
	Testing Social Anxiety “Danger” Beliefs, 296; Increasing Confidence in Coping, 297; Assertive Defense of the Self, 297; Social Anxiety: Better to Test Danger Beliefs, Develop Coping Skills, or Both?, 302
	Related Disorders: OCD and PTSD, 302
	Obsessive–Compulsive Disorder, 303; Posttraumatic Stress Disorder, 304
	Troubleshooting Guide: Common Anxiety Disorders, 305
	Multiple Anxiety Problems, 305
12	Anger, Guilt, and Shame (MOM2 Chapter 15)	307
	When Do These Moods Become Problems?, 308
	Measuring and Tracking Moods in Three Dimensions, 309
	Anger, 311
	Anger Guide for Clinicians: The Flow of Therapy, 311; Forming an Alliance and Rating Anger, 313; Identifying Thoughts, Images, and Memories Linked to Anger, 314; Considering Your Client’s Perspective First, 315; Thought Records, Action Plans, and Behavioral Experiments, 318; Slowing Down an Anger Response, 318; Forgiving Others, 325; Rating Anger Management Strategies, 330; Anger as an Issue in Couple or Family Therapy, 331
	Guilt and Shame, 331
	Measuring and Tracking Guilt and Shame, 331; Guilt or Shame Guide for Clinicians: The Flow of Therapy, 332; Understanding Guilt and Shame, 333; Assessing the Seriousness of Actions, 334; Using a Responsibility Pie to Weigh Personal Responsibility, 338; Making Reparations for Hurting Someone, 341; Breaking the Silence Surrounding Shame or Guilt, 344; Self-Forgiveness, 351
	Troubleshooting Guide: MOM2 Chapter 15, 353
	People Who Blame Others Instead of Feeling Guilt or Shame, 353
13	Relapse Management and Happiness	356
	(MOM2 Chapter 16 and Epilogue)
	Skills Practice and Relapse Management, 358
	Reviewing and Rating MOM2 Skills, 360
	Reducing the Likelihood of Relapse, 360
	Identify High-Risk Situations, 361; Identify Early Warning Signs, 361; Prepare a Plan of Action, 362; Engage in Imaginal Coping Practice with the Plan of Action, 362
	Using MOM2 as a Posttherapy Guide, 363
	Enhancing Happiness and Positive Experiences with MOM2, 364
	MOM2 Epilogue: For Readers and Therapists, 365

Section II

Mind Over Mood in Context

14	CBT Principles in Individual and Couple Therapy	371
	The Great Variety of CBT Approaches: A “Many Therapies” View, 372 What Is Evidence-Based Therapy?, 374; The Continuing Evolution of CBT Approaches, 374
	Common Principles of CBT: A “One Therapy” View, 374 Principle 1: Use CBT-Based Case Conceptualizations, 375; Principle 2: Create and Maintain a Collaborative Therapy Relationship, 385; Principle 3: Be Guided by Empiricism, 390; Principle 4: Emphasize Skill Acquisition and Enduring Improvements, 392
	Methods of Guided Discovery in CBT, 394 Guided Discovery Embedded in MOM2 , 394; Socratic Dialogue: Four Steps, 395
	Creative Applications of MOM2: Substance Misuse and Abuse, 397 Permission-Giving Beliefs, 397; Mood Management, 398; Life and Relationship Problems, 399; MOM2 Compatibility with Treatment Programs, 399; Managing Relapse, 400
	Troubleshooting Guide: Use of CBT Principles, 400 Refusal to Discuss Cultural Background, 400; Therapy Ruptures, 403; When Clients Don’t Improve, 405
15	MOM2-Based Group Therapy	407
	Structure of MOM2-Based CBGT, 408
	Protocol-Based MOM2 Depression Group, 408 Pregroup Individual Session, 408; Group Session 1, 409; Group Session 2, 414; Group Session 3, 416; Group Session 4, 417; Group Session 5, 419; Group Session 6, 422; Group Session 7, 426; Group Session 8, 429; Group Session 9, 432; Group Session 10, 435; Group Session 11, 437; Group Session 12, 438; Group Session 13, 442; Group Session 14, 443; Group Session 15, 444; Postgroup Individual Session, 447
	Modular CBGT: Skills-Focused and Problem-Based Approaches, 448 Skills-Focused Modular CBGT, 448; Problem-Based Modular CBGT, 449
	Troubleshooting Guide: Group Therapy, 451 Different Rates of Client Progress and Skill Development, 451; Group Members Who Are Silent or Too Talkative, 451; Falling Behind or Getting Ahead of Schedule, 452; Open Groups, 453
	Appendix A: Specific Mood Reading Guides from MOM2	455
	Appendix B: A Personal History of the 7-Column Thought Record	460
	Appendix C: Additional Resources from Christine A. Padesky	463
	References	465
	Index	478